

republicans because they are extremely one sided and no room for opposite opinions

user1

This is very true. They have not budged in a decade.

user2

republicans also dwell on topics that are not top priority for most people like immigration when we have high inflation

user1